PERIHAL KEBUTUHAN, DAN APA YANG DAPAT DILAKUKAN OLEH SEBUAH PAMERAN

Catatan Kuratorial BNE Vol.5

Meski nama "Bandung New Emergence" dengan jelas memperlihatkan lokasi geografis serta kelompok umur yang menjadi sasaran program ini, apa yang tidak serta merta tersirat adalah penekanan pada adanya suatu metode kuratorial yang spesifik untuk tiap edisi. Dengan menuntut bahwa tiap edisi - atau 'volume' - memiliki suatu strategi kuratorial yang khusus, semangat BNE memang ditandai oleh keinginan untuk tidak hanya mempertontonkan karya-karya terbaik dari seniman muda Bandung, tapi juga membuka ruang agar berbagai format berpameran yang berbeda dapat diuji coba dan didiskusikan. Beragam jenis kerangka kuratorial yang telah digunakan hingga saat ini - mulai dari metode pemetaan, survei, mentoring, hingga pendekatan sosio-logis menjadi cara agar relasi antara seniman, karya, publik, dan ruang pamer dapat dibangun. Pada volume ini, Sally Texania dan saya memposisikan diri kami sebagai 'fasilitator', untuk memenuhi apa yang kami anggap sebagai kebutuhan para seniman serta publik.

Sejak tahap awal, mengasimilasi minat para seniman yang diundang di BNE Vol. 5 ke dalam suatu tema besar atau narasi tunggal terkesan sebagai metode yang tidak relevan maupun dibutuhkan. Terlebih lagi, jika kita menimbang dampak ideologi pasca-kapitalis, neo-liberal global pada seni kontemporer, dan jenis kebutuhan seniman muda yang disebabkan olehnya. Berhadapan dengan sebuah dunia seni yang didominasi oleh tekanan pasar, seniman muda kerap hanyut dalam upaya memproduksi komoditas belaka, melupakan kebutuhan - yang bisa jadi lebih besar dari hal lainnya - untuk untuk terus mengeksplorasi dan bereksperimentasi secara luas. Dengan adanya kebutuhan ini, suatu strategi kuratorial dibentuk untuk BNE Vol. 5 agar dapat menciptakan kesempatan bagi para seniman yang diundang untuk meregang dan memperluas moda produksi artistik mereka.

Dengan memposisikan diri kami sebagai fasilitator, kami berusaha mendampingi tiap seniman dalam merumuskan dan mengimplementasi metode-metode artistik tertentu, yang mereka butuhkan demi memperdalam minat mereka lebih jauh. Ini mencakup banyak hal, mulai dari menginisiasi kemitraan dengan seniman lain yang tidak mereka kenal sebelumnya, mengusulkan institusi atau pekerja budaya untuk diajak bekerja sama, menawarkan perspektif yang berbeda atas praktik mereka, menyarankan tempat untuk melakukan residen, dan seterusnya. Semua ini dilakukan seiring terus memperhatikan dengan cermat apa yang sesungguhnya ingin dilakukan oleh tiap seniman, termasuk aspek apa dari praktik mereka yang tidak tergantikan, serta aspek apa yang lebih fleksibel dan dapat dinegosiasi. Pada dasarnya, metode kuratorial ini bertujuan mengeksplosi para seniman terhadap cara-cara bekerja yang berada diluar kebiasaan mereka, yang kami anggap dapat menjadi penting atau berguna bagi mereka.

Dimana terdapat praktik yang membutuhkan pendekatan tertentu terhadap riset - seperti pada Nurrachmat Widyasena, Maharani Mancanagara, Resatio Adi Putra dan Zaldy Armansyah - kami mengambil kesempatan untuk membantu mereka dalam merumuskan pertanyaan penelitian, mendefinisikan persoalan utama, atau memperkenalkan mereka pada sumber-sumber yang relevan untuk topik yang mereka bahas. Dalam prosesnya, mereka mengumpulkan beragam informasi dari beberapa pusat dan institusi penelitian, serta pakar di bidang-bidang tertentu, dan menjadikannya sumber daya penting dalam penciptaan. Maka, terdapat pergeseran penting pada praktik mereka, melampaui kecenderungan sebelumnya untuk berkutat di riset fase awal.

Mengingat latar belakang Bonggal Hutagalung di seni keramik, residensi selama satu bulan di Jatiwangi art Factory, di sebuah area di Jawa Barat yang terkenal karena industri genteng keramiknya, memberikan suatu suasana dimana Bonggal dapat bekerja dari sudut pandang yang berbeda. Sebagai hasil, terlihat perluasan dari praktik Bonggal sebelumnya yang banyak bergantung pada intuisi kesenimanannya dalam merespon permasalahan pribadi, karena karyanya di pameran ini juga dapat dilihat sebagai suatu tanggapan terhadap kondisi sosial tertentu yang dihidupi oleh suatu kelompok masyarakat.

wo diminta untuk memikirkan dampak ekologis dari praktiknya - yang banyak menggunakan zat-zat kimia keras - dengan menggunakan material bekas yang ia miliki. Mirfak memilih untuk menggunakan sisa cairan poliuretan dan resin yang sebelumnya digunakan untuk modelling, dan menciptakan bentuk-bentuk skulptural tiga dimensi. Meski menggunakan medium dan teknik yang berbeda, karakteristik visual yang mengingatkan kita pada kontur lanskap alam tetap memperlihatkan kemiripan dengan ciri-ciri formal karya-karya lukisnya.

Semasa perbicangan awal kami, Eldwin Pradipta mengatakan bahwa sebagai seniman, relasi antara karyanya dan pengunjung adalah faktor yang penting baginya. Disini, kami berusaha memperluas jenis relasi yang dapat terjadi dengan menimbang ulang situs dimana karyanya diletakkan. Karena Eldwin tertarik dengan persoalan pembajakan film - mengambil fenomena DVD bajakan sebagai kasus - ia menyusun sebuah situasi di daerah Kota

Mulyana dan Tamara menciptakan karya mereka dibawah moniker Marayana, untuk memberi tanggapan terhadap persoalan politik gender di Yogyakarta. Karya mereka banyak terinspirasi oleh pengetahuan dan pengalaman Tamara mengenai dinamika komunitas homoseksual dan transgender di Yogyakarta, serta medium rajut dan anyam yang menjadi pilihan Mulyana. Agus Novianto dan Aulia Ibrahim Yeru, yang tidak tahu-menahu tentang satu sama lain sebelum BNE Vol. 5, diperkenalkan atas dasar praktik mereka yang sama-sama menggunakan cahaya dan ruang sebagai medium. Dengan pengalaman teknis Agus di bidang ini, serta kemampuan Aulia untuk mengartikulasikan praktik tersebut dalam

Karena sebuah pameran selalu melibatkan publik, yang tanpanya pameran tersebut hanya akan menjadi sistem komunikasi satuarah saja, BNE Vol. 5 ingin memfasilitasi cara-cara dimana suatu proses belajar dapat terjadi. Pameran ini tidak ingin untuk hanya memiliki pandangan kritis atas karya-karya yang ada saja, tapi juga atas pameran itu sendiri: apa yang dapat dilakukan oleh sebuah pameran, sebagai ruang dimana pengetahuan dapat didiseminasi atau ditransmisi? Peran kurator tidak lagi bisa terbatas pada keahliannya mengenai karya-karya yang dipamerkan, dengan suara otoritatif mengenai kebenaran atau pengetahuan. Melainkan, peran tersebut harus dibentang hingga mencakup pembentukan suatu proses edukasi melampaui model guru-siswa, dan membuka ruang untuk pertanyaan dan penyelidikan lebih jauh tentang karya-karya yang ada.

Dengan alasan demikian, maka memamerkan bagian-bagian tertentu dari proses produksi para seniman menjadi suatu langkah penting. Jika kesenian membuka ruang dimana pengetahuan dapat terjadi, maka kita tidak hanya belajar dari bentuk akhir sebuah karya, tetapi juga dari proses dan langkah yang membangun karya tersebut. Seniman pada umumnya memang sadar akan hal ini, tapi belum tentu demikian halnya dengan publik. Maka, penting bagi BNE Vol. 5 untuk berbagi aspek tersebut dari kesenian. Disini, praktik kuratorial menjadi sarana untuk mensirkulasi gagasan mengenai kesenian, dan bukan hanya sekadar praktik memilih dan memajang karya sesuai dengan suatu tema. Menampilkan beberapa pilihan artefak, sisa-sisa dari fase produksi, buku-buku, dan bermacam bentuk dokumentasi, adalah sebuah cara untuk mempertegas praktik kuratorial sebagai "ekspansi praksis pendidikan."

atas perkembangan seni kontemporer di Bandung, melalui sekelompok seniman mudanya. Dengan mencoba memenuhi kebutuhan yang disebut diatas, kami berharap untuk dapat memfasilitasi pertemuan dan pertukaran antara karya, seniman, dan pengunjung, dengan cara-cara yang tidak sepenuhnya terduga.

ON “NEEDS”, AND WHAT AN EXHIBITION CAN DO

BNE Vol.5 Curatorial Notes

Although the name “Bandung New Emergence” clearly tells us the geographical region as well as age group that the program gears itself towards, it does not readily show that the program insists on having a specific curatorial method for each ‘volume’. In demanding this, the spirit of BNE is marked by a desire not simply to showcase the best works by Bandung’s young artists, but to also open up a space in which different exhibition formats may be tested out and discussed. The diverse range of curatorial frameworks that have hitherto been employed - be it the methods of mapping, surveying, mentoring, to adopting a sociological approach - became a way that a relationship between the artist, the artwork, the public, and the exhibition space is built. In the current volume, Sally Texania and I positioned ourselves as ‘facilitators’, seeking to address what we consider to be the needs of both the artists as well as the public.

Since the initial stages of BNE Vol. 5, to assimilate the invited artists’ diverse interests into an over-arching theme or singular curatorial narrative seemed an irrelevant and unnecessary method. This is especially so, when one considers the impacts of the global neo-liberal, post-capitalist ideology on contemporary art, and the kinds of needs this creates for young artists. Facing an art world dominated by market pressures, young artists become preoccupied with producing commo dities, forsaking the need - which is perhaps greater than anything else - to continue exploring and experimenting as widely as possible. It is towards this need that a curatorial strategy was devised for BNE Vol. 5, one that would create an opportunity for the invited artists to expand and broaden their modes of artistic production.

Positioning ourselves as facilitators, in this sense, meant that we would assist each artist in formulating and implementing certain methods that they require to pursue their varying interests further. This ranged from initiating partnerships with other artists that they may not know before, suggesting institutions or cultural workers that they may work with, offering a different way of looking at their practice, proposing places to do short residencies, and so on. All of these were done while paying careful attention to what each of the artist is trying to do, including which aspects of their practice is indispensable, and which others are more flexible and open to negotiation. This strategy serves a purpose of exposing them to ways of working that they may not be accustomed to, but which we feel they would find important or profitable.

Where there are practices that require specific approaches to research - as in the case with Nurrachmat Widjasa, Maharani Mancanagara, Resatio Adi Putra and Zaldy Armansyah - we took it as an opportunity to assist the artists in formulating research questions, defining key issues, or putting them in touch with sources that are relevant for the topic of their concern. In their process, they collected various information from different research centres and institutions, as well as experts in particular fields, and treat this as an essential resource for artistic creation. As such, there is a significant shift in the artists' mode of production, which stretches beyond an earlier preoccupation for doing base research.

Given Bonggal Hutagalung's background in fine art ceramics, a month-long residency at Jatiwangi art Factory, an area in West Java famous for its ceramic roof tile industry, provides an environment where the artist may explore his medium from an unanticipated perspective. As a result, there is an expansion from his previous mode of production that heavily relied on artistic intuition to address personal matters, as the work exhibited here may be seen as a response to specific social conditions as lived by a particular community.

Mirfak Prabowo, an artist trained in the tradition of painting, was asked to consider the ecological impacts of his practice - which depends on the use of harsh chemicals - by using the waste materials he has available. He took to using leftover polyurethane and resin liquid that was used previously for modelling purposes, and created three-dimensional sculptural forms. Despite the different medium and technique used, the visual allusion to the contours of the natural landscape still resembles the formal qualities of his painting works.

During our earliest conversations, Eldwin Pradipta mentioned that as an artist, the relationship between his work and the audience is an important factor for him. Here, we tried to expand the kind of relationship that could happen by re-considering the site where the work may take place. As Eldwin is interested in the issue of film piracy - taking the case of pirated DVDs - he created a situation at Bandung's Kota Rembang area where he worked with fake DVD sellers in their booths to peddle "pirated" video art works. Here, the participation of the DVD sellers as well their clientele is an integral part of the work.

The last two works exhibited here are the result of a collaborative method. Artists Mulyana and Tamara created their work under the moniker Marayana, to address issues surrounding gender politics in Yogyakarta. Their work drew enormously from Tamara's insightful knowledge as well as experience of the dynamics of Yogyakarta's homosexual and transgender community, as well as Mulyana's chosen medium of weaving. Agus Novianto and Aulia Ibrahim Yeru, who had not known each other prior to BNE Vol. 5, were introduced on the basis of their similar practice in working with light and space as medium. With Agus' technical experience in the field and Aulia's ability to articulate such a practice within the larger art historical discourse, collaboration thus presents itself as a model that would benefit both artists.

As an exhibition is always concerned with the public, without whom it remains a mere one-way communication system, BNE Vol. 5 aims to facilitate ways that learning could take place through an exhibition. It seeks to expand the critical focus beyond the works exhibited, to the exhibition itself: what can an exhibition do, as a space where knowledge may be disseminated or transmitted? The role of the curator can no longer be limited to being an expert about the works that are exhibited, with an authoritative voice of truth or knowledge. Rather, it must extend to producing educative processes beyond the teacher-student model, opening up, instead, spaces of further questioning and inquiry about the exhibited works.

It is according to this line of thinking that parts of the artists' production processes are displayed within the exhibition space. If art opens up a space for knowledge to form, then it is not only through the finished work that we may learn, but also through the process and steps that constitute the work. Artists are aware of this, but that is not necessarily the case with the general public. As such, it becomes important to share this aspect of art. Here, curating becomes a way to circulate ideas about art, and not simply a practice of choosing and displaying artworks according to a given theme. The inclusion of different artefacts, remnants from the production phase, books, and various forms of documentation, becomes a way to reinforce curating "as an expanded educational praxis".

Following the steps of its previous editions, BNE Vol. 5 offers an observation about the development of contemporary art in Bandung, through a group of its young artists. In addressing the needs mentioned above, we hope to facilitate encounters and exchanges between the artworks, the artists, and the audience, in ways that may not be previously expected.

BNE #5 : SEBUAH KEMUNGKINAN PERTEMUAN DAN PENEMUAN

Memasuki kali ke-5, Bandung New Emergence (BNE) sebagai pameran dua tahunan mungkin menjadi sebuah peristiwa yang ditunggu sekaligus mulai dipertanyakan urgensinya. Pada masa terdahulu, BNE menjadi penting dengan minimnya fasilitas mediasi seni melalui pameran yang dikhususkan bagi seniman muda Bandung. Masih segar dalam ingatan saya, bagaimana BNE menjadi ajang yang ditunggu seniman-seniman muda domisili Bandung guna melihat kecerungan pengkaryaan yang 'lulus saring' dan siap memasuki medan sosial seni. Tidak dapat dipungkiri alumni-alumni pameran ini sebagian masih bergerak aktif di medan sosial seni baik dalam skala lokal dan Internasional. Selain BNE, berkembangnya perhatian kepada seni rupa Bandung baik dalam koridor institusi non-profit maupun komersial dan khususnya boom seni rupa tahun 2000-an juga mendorong pertumbuhan seniman-seniman muda Bandung.

Bertambahnya volume pameran seni rupa untuk 'talenta baru' dengan inisiator dan skala yang bervariasi menyebabkan proses-proses legitimasi seorang seniman hari-hari ini tidak lagi bergantung pada peristiwa tunggal. Pasca 2008, meski terjadi kelesuan pada medan pasar seni Indonesia, seniman muda sebenarnya tidak lagi tergantung pada satu 'formula' dan satu 'saluran'. Dengan adanya perluasan sekat-sekat dan keluwesan yang ditawarkan era informasi dan dengan naiknya pamor Indonesia diranah konstelasi global dalam berbagai bidang, dalam satu sisi, seniman tidak lagi bergantung pada satu sistem. Sebagai individu dan sebagai seorang 'produsen' yang membutuhkan 'alur distribusi', seniman memiliki keleluasaan untuk bergerak dalam saluran-saluran yang semakin terdiversifikasi tersebut. Tumbuhnya sekat-sekat baru dalam distribusi juga mendorong adanya kebutuhan individu dalam membangun jembatan antar agen sehingga kemampuan dan kemauan melakukan perlintasan dan pergerakan merupakan satu syarat yang tak terelakan. Maka, dengan adanya persebaran proses legitimasi tersebut, bagai-mana kemudian sebuah pameran seniman muda mengembangkan fungsi diluar kebutuhan-kebutuhan

Dengan adanya peran dua kurator, BNE 5 memiliki kesempatan untuk sepenuhnya menjadi ajang pertukaran, diskusi, perdebatan dan pembangunan kesadaran mengenai pentingnya melihat (seni) kontemporer sebagai sebuah proses bertumbuh dan berkembang yang terus memiliki kesempatan untuk diredefinisi ketimbang semata diproduksi. Sehingga, dalam BNE kali ini perlintasan dan pergerakan khususnya ditandai dari eksplorasi komponen penciptaan karya seni dengan adanya usaha-usaha pembukaan batas seperti pengembangan media, model kolaborasi, residensi, dan riset lintas disiplin dalam proses seniman.

Mirfak Prabowo memiliki peminatan yang kuat pada eksplorasi medium. Dalam karya-karya sebelumnya peminatan ini khususnya ditunjukkan melalui berbagai eksperimentasi percampuran konsentrasi cat dan media pendukungnya. Meski tarikan dan ketidakterdugaan muncul dari proses membongkar komponen pengkaryaananya, eksplorasi ini tertib berlangsung diatas kanvas. Menurunkan kekhaskan eksplorasinya diatas kanvas. Mirfak menemukan potensi intervensi pada media lain yakni limbah polyuretan dan resin yang memiliki potensi ketidakterdugaan dalam bentuk tiga dimensional.

Marayana merupakan kolaborasi yang tumbuh dari proses Mulyana seniman asal Bandung yang konsisten berkarya dengan teknik rajut dengan seniman asal Jogja Tamara dalam penggunaan teknik anyaman dengan media campuran. Mulyana yang dikenal dengan penggunaan anyaman benang ini sebelumnya mulai dikenal melalui ejawantah dunia fantasinya mengenai gurita yang diberi nama "Mogus" beserta runtutan fiksi yang menyeratanya. Beralih dari fiksi, Mulyana dan Tamara melalui duet Marayana menggulirkan penggunaan teknik anyam kepada representasi dinamika persepsi akan gender.

Agus Novianto dan Aulia Yeru menggunakan pendekatan kolaboratif dalam mewujudkan irisan ketertarikan dalam membuat ruang dengan kemampuan menimbulkan respon-respon sensori. Melalui kerjasama mereka Agus dengan perhatian dan kemampuannya mengolah visual melalui media baru dan Aul dengan kesadaran kesenirupaan pada pengelolaan media baru menggabungkan potensi individualnya dalam kerja kelompok yang mengarah pada permainan stimulasi indera penglihatan.

Aspek keberadaan konvensi seni keramik merupakan bagian penting dari pengkaryaan Bonggal Hutagalung. Meski memiliki minat untuk selalu menyisipkan unsur bermain dalam pengkaryaannya, Bonggal juga menyimpan pertanyaan kritis mengenai pelandaman media keramik. Membawa perhatian ini, Bonggal menempuh residensi di Jatiwangi guna memperoleh spektum luas mengenai penggunaan medianya ini. Bergerak dari pengalaman tersebut, karya Bonggal menampilkan simulasi dan aspirasi mengenai relasi sebab-akibat yang tumbuh di tengah kelompok masyarakat dari adanya kekhususan pengolahan media dalam proses produksi, eksplorasi, dan komodifikasi.

Maharani Mancanagara, Resatio Adi Putra dan Nurrachmat Widyasena masing-masing bekerja dalam eksplorasi ragam perspektif dan fakta hari ini dalam usaha merekonstruksi narasi lokal-global dimasa lampau. Rani yang sebelumnya bekerja dengan referensi buku harian kakaknya dalam merekonstruksi pertumbuhan sistem pendidikan Indonesia kini mengumpulkan perspektif ragam disiplin keilmuan guna mempertemukan berbagai sudut pandang dalam narasinya. Resatio yang konsisten membuat ilustrasi melalui kolase mulai mencari aspek-aspek asimilasi dalam dongeng rakyat yang membawanya pada penggandaan tidak identik pada karyanya, dimana unit-unit perulangannya berintensi untuk mendorong ragam interpretasi. Nurrachmat 'Ito' Wididasena yang gemar mengambil pencitraan-pencitraan space age mencari relevansi kisah dan jargon yang lahir dari masa tersebut dalam konteks perkembangan teknologi lokal dengan melakukan riset melalui lembaga kenegaraan. Penemuan fiksi dan fakta lapangan memungkinkan Ito membuka babak baru dalam eksplorasi substansi pengkaryaan.

Eldwin Pradipta menjadi seniman muda yang konsisten bekerja dalam pengujian batas-batas high art dan low art melalui karyanya. Bila dalam karya terdahulu Eldwin bekerja melalui penggunaan media baru membongkar kemapanan 'seni tinggi' khususnya lukisan dalam koridor-koridor senirupa, kali ini Eldwin menguji media baru yang telah memapan melalui saluran distribusi penjual dvd bajakan. Sebagai sebuah pengujian, karya Eldwin kali ini bergerak diluar rekonstruksi kisah menuju eksplorasi agen dan channel.

Zaldy Armansyah bergerak dalam penggalian personal mengenai keterikatan aspek spiritual dan intelektual melalui eksplorasinya pada bentuk-bentuk kalender. Dalam proses kali ini, Zaldy mencoba mewawancara beberapa narasumber dalam membantunya membuat pengukuran-pengukuran dalam pengkaryaan. Proses wawancara sendiri menjadi momen-momen yang dihargai Zaldy sebagai proses berulang antara kenyataan dan ketidaknyataan yang dibangun dengan adanya penghayatan Zaldy terhadap isi wawancara terkait pengukuran dalam sains dan pemaknaan secara filosofis maupun pengalaman saat menerima informasi narasumber. Dengan pengalaman ini Zaldy membuat karya dari perulangan modul pengalamannya menyerap, merenung, dan tersesat dalam proses spiritual dan intelektual tersebut.

Menarik pada proses-proses yang terjadi dan peran persiapan pameran sebagai sebuah pra-kondisi, BNE kali ini diharapkan menjadi celah bagi seniman muda yang juga telah memasuki mekanisme 'produksi-distribusi' seni kedalam kesempatan percobaan dan kecakapan eksperimentasi. Ditariknya elemen-elemen ruang penelitian yang memungkinkan terjadinya kesempatan observasi, analisis maupun pengukuran memperluas peran sebuah pameran seniman muda. Sebuah peristiwa institusi berperan dalam proses pengujian komponen artistik talenta muda disamping penyedia panggung untuk sebuah debut, saat pameran mengadaptasi peran-peran laboratorium selain mengambil peran-peran wadah distribusi.

BNE #5 : THE POSSIBILITY OF encounter and invention

BNE Vol.5 Curatorial Notes

Entering its 5th edition, Bandung New Emergence (BNE) as a bi-annual exhibition has perhaps now turned into an eagerly awaited event whose urgency is starting to be questioned. In the past, BNE was important considering the small number of art mediation facilities through an exhibition that is specifically aimed at young artists in Bandung. Still fresh in my memory, how BNE was an event that was anticipated by young artists residing in Bandung in order to see the tendency of practices that could 'pass the selection process' and were ready to enter art's social arena. Undoubtedly, alumni of this exhibition still actively work in art's social arena both in local and international scales. Aside from BNE, the growing attention for art from Bandung, both in the corridors of non-profit as well as commercial institutions, and especially the art boom of the 2000s, also helped the development of Bandung's young artists. The increasing volume of art exhibitions for 'new talent' with varying initiatives and scales created legitimization process for artists these days that do not solely depend on a single event. Post 2008, despite the lethargy that the Indonesian art market experienced, young artists no longer rely on a singular 'formula' or 'channel'. With the expansion of boundaries and the fluidity offered by the information era, in addition to the growing prestige of Indonesia in the global constellation across the fields, in a way, an artist no longer depends on a single system. As an individual as well as 'producer' who require a 'flow of distribution', an artist has the freedom to move across channels that are increasingly diversified. The growth of new divisions in distribution also propels individual needs to build bridges between agents, so that the ability and willingness to create crossings and movements become an unavoidable requirement. Thus, with such a spread of the legitimization process, how does an exhibition for young artists then develop its function beyond the needs of 'distribution', 'legitimation', and 'validation'?

With the involvement of two curators, BNE 5 has the opportunity to fully act as an event for exchange, discussion, debates and increasing awareness for the importance to look at contemporary art as a growing and expanding field, able to be continuously re-defined instead of simply being produced. So that, in the current BNE there is a crossing and movement that is particularly characterized by an exploration of the components of artistic creation, with attempts to open up boundaries such as through the expansion of medium, collaboration models, residencies, and interdisciplinary research as part of the artists' process.

Mirfak Prabowo has a strong interest in medium exploration. In his previous works, this interest was made evident through various experiments in mixing the concentration of paint with other supporting medium. Despite the curious pulls and unexpected results from the process of unpacking his creation components, this exploration remain to take place on the surfaces of canvas. As he leaves behind his characteristic exploration on the surfaces of canvas, Mirfak finds the possibility to intervene with other medium, which is the waste of polyurethane and resin, and their surprising potentials for creating three-dimensional forms.

Marayana is a collaboration that grew from the process of Mulyana, an artist from Bandung who consistently works with the technique of knitting, with Jogja-based artist Tamara in using weaving techniques with mixed media. Mulyana, who is known for knitting with thread, previously drew attention for his exploration of a fantasy world about an octopus that he calls "Mogus", as well as the string of fictions that followed. Moving away from fiction, Mulyana and Tamara through the duet of Marayana put forth the use of weaving techniques to create a representation of the dynamics of gender perception.

Agus Novianto and Aulia Yeru employ a collaborative approach in establishing an intersection of interest to create a room with the ability of producing sensory responses. Through their partnership, Agus with his attention and ability to process visuality with new media and Aul with his awareness of artistic discourse on the use of new media, combine their individual potentials in a team work that address the stimulating plays on our sense of sight.

The aspect of conventions in fine art ceramics is an important part of Bonggal Hutagalung's practice. Although this interest is always suffused with elements of play in his work, Bonggal also carries critical questions about the exploration on ceramic as a medium. With this attention, Bonggal carried out a residency in Jatiwangi to create a broader spectrum on the use of this medium. Based on his experience, Bonggal's work presents a simulation as well as aspirations on the cause-and-effect relation in a community with a specific approach to media in the process of production, exploitation, and commodification.

Rani Mancanagara, Resatio and Nurrachmat Widyasena each work in exploring the variety of perspectives and current facts in their attempt to reconstruct local-global narratives of the past. Rani who previously worked according to references from her grandfather's diary in reconstructing the development of the Indonesian education art system now collected a variety of perspectives from different disciplines to gather a multitude of point-of-views in her narrative. Resatio, who consistently creates illustrations from collages, began to look for assimilation aspects in folktales that brought him to an unidentical repetition in his work, where the repetitive units are intended to open up different interpretations. Nurrachmat 'Ito' Widyasena, who is keen on using 'space age' images, began to search for a relevance between stories and jargons from that era to the context of local technological development by undergoing research in government institutions. The discovery of fiction and field facts allows Ito to open a new chapter in exploring the substance of his practice.

Eldwin Pradipta is a young artist who consistently works on testing out the boundaries between high art and low art. If in his previous work Eldwin works by using new media to unpack the established position of 'high art' in especially painting within the corridors of art, this time Eldwin analyzed the established status of new media through the distribution of pirated DVDs. As an examination, Eldwin's current work moves outside the reconstruction of narrative towards an exploration of agents and channels.

Zaldy Armansyah moves in a personal excavation about his interest in spiritual and intellectual aspects through an exploration of calendar forms. In his process for this exhibition, Zaldy conducted interviews with a number of sources in order to assist him in creating parameters for his practice. The interview process became valuable moments for Zaldy as a repeated process between the real and the unreal built from his own sensitivity towards the content of the interviews related to frameworks in science and philosophical meaning as well as his receptivity upon receiving the information. With this experience, Zaldy creates a work from compounded experiences of absorbing, reflecting, and getting lost in that spiritual and intellectual process.

It is interesting that the processes that took place and the role of preparation for an exhibition as a pre-requisite, the current BNE hopes to create an opening for young artists who have entered the mechanism of art's 'production-distribution' into an opportunity for exploration and the ability to experiment. The creation of elements of research spaces, which allows the occurrence of observation, analysis as well as measurement, expands the role of an exhibition for young artists. An institutional event has a role in this process of examining the components of young artistic talent, aside from creating a platform for a debut, when the exhibition adapts the roles of a laboratory in addition to taking on the role of creating vessels of distribution.
